Plaintiff.

VS.

COMPLAINT

Google LLC

Defendant.

Plaintiff LTL LED, LLC, doing business as Wolf River Electric, for its Complaint, states and alleges as follows:

PARTIES

- 1. Plaintiff LTL LED, LLC, doing business as Wolf River Electric (hereinafter "Wolf River"), is a Minnesota Limited Liability Company with a principal place of business located at 101 Isanti Parkway Northeast Suite G, Isanti, MN 55040.
- 2. Wolf River is in the business of the sale, design, installation, and repair of Commercial and Residential Photovoltaic Electricity Systems (solar systems).
- 3. Wolf River is not a financial lending company and does not provide financing or loans for solar systems.
- 4. Defendant Google LLC (hereinafter "Google") is a foreign limited liability company registered to do business in the State of Minnesota with the Minnesota Secretary of State.
- 5. Google has a registered office address of 2780 Snelling Avenue North, Suite 101, Roseville, MN 55113.

6. Google is officed in Minnesota, which accepts mail at, and located near, 221 1st Ave SW, Suite 610, Rochester, MN 55902.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

- 7. The Minnesota District Court, County of Ramsey, has personal jurisdiction over all claims set forth in this Complaint pursuant to Minn. Stat. § 543.19 because the injuries and causes of action set forth in this Complaint arose in Minnesota, Google uses and possesses real and personal property situated in Minnesota, and Google transacts business within Minnesota.
- 8. Venue is proper in Ramsey County pursuant to Minn. Stat. § 542.09 because both parties do business in Ramsey County, Google resides in Ramsey County, Google's registered agent office is in Ramsey County, and the cause of action arose from conduct and acts that were intended to harm Wolf River in this district.

FACTS

- 9. On or around September 2, 2024, employees of Wolf River discovered that Google was producing and publishing statements on the internet that falsely informed the public that Wolf River was facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General due to violating several laws.
 - 10. Specifically, Google's publication states:

According to recent news reports, Wolf River Electric is currently facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General due to allegations of deceptive sales practices regarding their solar panel installations, including misleading customers about cost savings, using high-pressure tactics, and tricking homeowners into signing binding contracts with hidden fees; many customers claim they were not properly informed about the total cost of their solar systems and experienced significant issues with installation and functionality after signing contracts.

11. A copy of this publication is attached as Exhibit 1.

 - 13. Google lists four (4) websites as a source in support of its claims.
- 14. The first website that is cited is a news article titled "Minnesota homeowners say they were hit with huge hidden fees when going solar" and was published by the Minnesota Star Tribune (hereinafter "Star Tribune Article").
- 15. The Star Tribune Article never states Wolf River is facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General.
- 16. The Star Tribune Article contains nothing about Wolf River misleading customers about cost savings.
- 17. The Star Tribune Article does not state anything about customers who claimed they were not properly informed about the total cost of their solar systems.
- 18. The Star Tribune Article does not state Wolf River's customers experienced significant issues with installation and functionality after signing contracts.
- 19. The second link cited to is a review on the website Angie's List (hereinafter the "Angie's List Review").
- 20. The Angie's List Review contains nothing about a Minnesota Attorney General Lawsuit against Wolf River.
 - 21. The Angie's List Review is not a news report.
- 22. The Angie's List Review does not state Wolf River mislead customers about cost savings.
 - 23. The Angie's List Review does not claim Wolf River tricked homeowners.

- 24. The Angie's List Review does not say anything about hidden fees.
- 25. The Angie's List Review does not state that many customers claim they were not properly informed about the total cost of their solar systems.
- 26. The third source cited to is a publication by the Minnesota Attorney General, published on April 26, 2022 (hereinafter the "Attorney General Publication").
- 27. The Attorney General Publication lists ten (10) solar related parties to its lawsuit, none of which are Wolf River.
 - 28. The Attorney General Publication does not say that Wolf River is facing a lawsuit.
- 29. The Attorney General Publication does not state Wolf River engaged in deceptive sales practices regarding their solar panel installations.
- 30. The Attorney General Publication does not state Wolf River mislead customers about cost savings.
- 31. The Attorney General Publication does not state Wolf River used high-pressure tactics.
- 32. The Attorney General Publication does not state Wolf River tricked homeowners into signing binding contracts with hidden fees.
- 33. The Attorney General Publication does not state that many of Wolf River's customers claimed they were not properly informed about the total cost of their solar systems.
- 34. The Attorney General Publication does not state that Wolf River's customers experienced significant issues with installation and functionality after signing contracts.
 - 35. In fact, Wolf River is never mentioned in the Attorney General Publication.

- 36. The fourth source Google cited to is an article published by KROC News. The article is titled "Minnesota AG Suing Four Solar Panel Sales Companies", and was published on April 26, 2022 (hereinafter "KROC Article").
 - 37. The KROC Article never mentions Wolf River Electric. It states:

The companies named in the lawsuit are Brio Energy (also known as Pure Solar Energy and Clean Energy Educators), Bello Solar Energy (also known as Total Solar Solutions and Brio Solar Energy), Avolta Power, and Sunny Solar Utah (also known as Sunny Renewable Energy). A news release notes that Brio changed its name to Bello and then Avolta. The lenders being sued or identified as Goodleap (Loanpal), Sunlight Financial, and Corning Credit Union Services Company. 1

- 38. The KROC Article does not state that Wolf River is facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General.
- 39. The KROC Article does not state that Wolf River has allegations of deceptive sales practices regarding their solar panel installations.
- 40. The KROC Article does not state that Wolf River misleads customers about cost savings.

- 46. Google's publication falsely claims Wolf River is currently facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General. None of the four sources Google cited support this claim.
- 47. Despite this, Google's publication remains online and continues to harm Wolf River.
 - 48. The next part of Google publication reads:

Key points about the lawsuit against Wolf River Electric:

Deceptive marketing:

The lawsuit alleges that Wolf River Electric salespeople exaggerated the potential cost savings from solar panels, often claiming customers would no longer receive electricity bills after installation, which is not accurate.

High-pressure tactics:

Customers reported feeling pressured to sign contracts quickly, with sales representatives downplaying concerns and using misleading language.

Hidden fees:

Some customers claim they were not adequately informed about additional fees associated with financing their solar systems, leading to unexpectedly high costs.

Installation issues:

Complaints include issues with the quality of solar panel installations, including improper connections to the grid and malfunctioning panels.²

- 49. The "deceptive marketing" paragraph cites to three sources: the Star Tribune Article, the Attorney General Publication, and the KROC Article.
- 50. None of Google's sources support its claim that Wolf River is in a lawsuit against the Attorney General.
- 51. Google's sources do not state that Wolf River exaggerated the potential cost savings from solar panels.

² See Exhibit 1.

- 52. Google's cited websites do not claim anything about Wolf River informing customers that they would no longer receive electricity bills after installation.
- 53. Google fabricated its claims that the Minnesota Attorney General brought a lawsuit against Wolf River for deceptive marketing.
- 54. Google cited three sources in support of its "high pressure sales tactics" paragraph: the Star Tribune Article, the Angie's List Review, and a Better Business Bureau review of Wolf River, posted on January 5, 2024 (hereinafter the "BBB Review").
- 55. None of these sources claim or state anything about the Minnesota Attorney General initiating a lawsuit against Wolf River for high-pressure sales tactics.
- 56. Google's publication falsely claimed that the Minnesota Attorney General brought a lawsuit against Wolf River for high-pressure sales tactics.
- 57. In Google's "hidden fees" section of the publication, Google again cites to three sources: the Star Tribune Article, the Attorney General Publication, and the KROC Article. None of these sources make any claim about Wolf River being sued by the Minnesota Attorney General, or anything regarding Wolf River's customers experiencing unexpectedly high costs.
- 58. Google's publication falsely claimed that the Minnesota Attorney General brought a lawsuit against Wolf River for hidden fees.
- 59. Google's last section of their publication claims Wolf River was sued by the Minnesota Attorney General for "installation issues." Google cites three sources in support of this: Attorney General Publication, the BBB Review, and the Angie's List Review. None of Google's sources claim that the Minnesota Attorney General is suing Wolf River for issues with the quality of solar panel installations, improper connections to the grid, and or malfunctioning panels.

- 60. Google's publication falsely claimed that the Minnesota Attorney General brought a lawsuit against Wolf River for installation issues.
- 61. Further, Google's search engine propagates the false information that it has published.
- 62. When searching for "Wolf River Electric" on Google's search engine, Google provides several auto complete phrases, including "Wolf River Electric lawsuit", "Wolf River Electric lawsuit reddit", "Wolf River Electric lawsuit update Minnesota", "Wolf River Electric lawsuit update today", and "Wolf River Electric lawsuit Minnesota settlement."
 - 63. A copy of this is attached as Exhibit 2 and 3.
- 64. According to Google's website, autocomplete predictions reflect common and real searches that other people have done which are trending, in the same location of where the query is coming from, and based off the language of the query. Specifically, Google states:

Once you start to type, autocomplete predictions reflect real searches that have been done on Google. To determine what predictions to show, our systems look for common queries that match what someone starts to enter into the search box but also consider:

- The language of the query
- The location a query is coming from
- Trending interest in a query

A copy of Google's explanation on how autocomplete predictions work is attached as Exhibit 4.

65. When searching on Google for Wolf River, the public is encouraged to search and click on the prompted autocompleted phrase "Wolf River Electric lawsuit." When the public selects this suggestion, the following statement is provided by Google:

Wolf River Electric has faced complaints and allegations, including being named in a lawsuit by the Minnesota Attorney General, alleging deceptive business practices and misleading consumers, and other complaints related to property damage and high-pressure sales tactics.

Here's a more detailed look:

Lawsuit by Minnesota Attorney General:

In 2022, the Minnesota Attorney General sued Wolf River Electric along with other solar companies for deceptive practices, alleging they misled consumers about cost savings, promised tax credits, and used high-pressure sales tactics.

Allegations of Deception and Misrepresentation:

The lawsuit claimed the companies falsely told customers they were partnering with utility companies, exaggerated savings, and tricked homeowners into signing binding contracts under false pretenses.

Other Complaints:

There are also complaints from consumers regarding property damage (like roof damage during installation) and disagreements over contracts and financing arrangements. Some homeowners reported being pressured into financing arrangements they couldn't afford, or being threatened with legal action when they tried to cancel contracts.

High-Pressure Tactics:

Sales tactics have been described as "predatory" by some homeowners who experienced issues with Wolf River Electric, including promises of a free cruise as part of the solar panel deal.

Better Business Bureau (BBB) Complaints:

The BBB profile for Wolf River Electric indicates a history of customer complaints.

Employee Reviews

Glassdoor and other review sites, Wolf River Electric has an overall rating of 4.0 out of 5 based on employee reviews.

67. A copy of this publication is attached as Exhibit 5.

- 68. Google's statement is false.
- 69. Wolf River was not named in a lawsuit by the Minnesota Attorney General for deceptive business practices and misleading consumers.
- 70. Wolf River was not sued by the Minnesota Attorney General in 2022 for misleading consumers about cost savings, promised tax credits, and used high-pressure sales tactics.
- 71. Google's false statements directly relate to the services, products, and work offered by Wolf River.
- 72. When searching on Google for Wolf River, the public is prompted with "Wolf River Electric lawsuit Minnesota Settlement." People who click on or search the terms Google recommends for them are then provided with the following publication:

The Minnesota Attorney General's Office has sued solar lending companies, including Wolf River Electric, over hidden fees and other practices. The office has obtained consent judgments against solar installers and lenders, returning over $300,000 to consumers.

What the lawsuit claims

- The lenders misrepresented loan repayment obligations
- The lenders failed to disclose upfront fees in loan documents
- The lenders and partner solar installers inflated their share of the market
- The lenders' practices skewed sales towards their financing

What the lawsuit seeks civil penalties, restitution, disgorgement, and injunctive and declaratory relief.

How consumers can get help

Consumers who have experienced problems with solar advertisers, installers, or lenders can file a complaint with the Minnesota Attorney General's Office. They can also call the office at (651)

296-3353 in the Twin Cities or (800) 657-3787 in Greater Minnesota.

- 75. Google's publication implies that Wolf River has not only been sued by the Minnesota Attorney General, but also that Wolf River was guilty with "consent judgments" and liable to its past customers for an amount of "$300,000."
- 76. When Wolf River's customer, potential customers, and the general public google Wolf River, they are recommended to click or search "Wolf River Electric lawsuit update today." Google then states the following:

As of April 2022, the Minnesota Attorney General filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, along with several other solar companies, alleging deceptive sales practices including misrepresenting cost savings, using high-pressure tactics, and tricking consumers into signing binding contracts, leading to many homeowners facing significant financial burdens from poorly installed solar panels that did not deliver promised energy savings; the case is still ongoing and details regarding its current status may be found on the Minnesota Attorney General's website.

Key points about the lawsuit:

Allegations:

The lawsuit accuses Wolf River Electric of misleading customers about the cost savings of solar panels, using aggressive sales tactics, and failing to properly install systems.

Consumer impact:

Many Minnesota homeowners who signed contracts with Wolf River Electric reported facing high hidden fees, delayed installations, and solar panels that did not perform as advertised.

Current status:

The lawsuit is still ongoing, and details regarding its progress can be found on the Minnesota Attorney General's website.

- 78. A copy of this publication is attached as Exhibit 7. See also Exhibit 8, alleging similar facts.
- 79. In support of Google's statement, it cites three sources: the Star Tribune Article, the Attorney General Publication, and the KROC Article.
- 80. None of the websites or articles Google cites to state anything about the Minnesota Attorney General filing a lawsuit against Wolf River.
- 81. Further, the Attorney General Publication and the KROC Article do not mention Wolf River a single time.
- 82. Google fabricated its claims that the Minnesota Attorney General filed a lawsuit against Wolf River.
- 83. Google falsely claimed that a lawsuit in 2022 was brought by the Minnesota Attorney General against Wolf River for deceptive sales practices including misrepresenting cost savings, using high-pressure tactics, and tricking consumers into signing binding contracts.

- 84. Google falsely claimed that a lawsuit in 2022 was brought by the Minnesota Attorney General against Wolf River for leading many homeowners to face significant financial burdens.
- 85. Google falsely claimed that a lawsuit in 2022 was brought by the Minnesota Attorney General against Wolf River for poorly installed solar panels.
- 86. Google falsely claimed that a lawsuit in 2022 was brought by the Minnesota Attorney General against Wolf River for not delivering promised energy savings.
- 87. Google falsely claimed that a lawsuit in 2022 was brought by the Minnesota Attorney General against Wolf River and falsely claimed the case is still ongoing and that details regarding its current status may be found on the Minnesota Attorney General's website.
- 88. Google's false statements were communicated to the public in which Wolf River conducts business and the statements directly relate to Wolf River's business, trade, and profession.
- 89. Google's statements were false, and the statements harm Wolf River's reputation in the community in which it offers solar system services.
- 90. When Wolf River's customers and members of the public search "Wolf River Electric", Google autocompletes the search to "Wolf River Electric company legit lawsuit." Google then displays the following publication,

According to recent news reports, the Minnesota Attorney General has filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, alleging that the company engaged in deceptive sales practices regarding solar panel installations, including misleading customers about tax credits and using high-pressure tactics to sign contracts; this lawsuit indicates that concerns regarding the legitimacy of Wolf River Electric's business practices are currently being investigated by legal authorities.

Key points about the lawsuit:

Deceptive sales tactics:

The lawsuit claims Wolf River Electric misled customers about the amount of money they could save with solar panels and falsely stated that they were automatically eligible for tax credits.

High-pressure sales:

Consumers reported feeling pressured to sign contracts quickly, with concerns about hidden fees and financing terms.

Poor installation quality:

Some complaints also mention issues with the quality of solar panel installations once contracts were signed.

What you should do:

Do your research:

Before signing a contract with Wolf River Electric, thoroughly research the company, read reviews, and compare quotes from other solar providers.

Ask questions:

Be very clear about all aspects of the contract, including financing terms, potential savings, and any tax credits you may be eligible for.

Contact the Attorney General's office:

If you believe you have been misled by Wolf River Electric, consider contacting the Minnesota Attorney General's office to file a complaint.

93. This publication by Google falsely claims that the Minnesota Attorney General filed a lawsuit against Wolf River for deceptive sales practices regarding solar panel installations, falsely claims the Attorney General is suing Wolf River for misleading customers about tax credits and using high-pressure tactics to sign contracts, and falsely claims the lawsuit indicates that concerns regarding the legitimacy of Wolf River Electric's business practices are currently being investigated by legal authorities.

- 94. Further, none of the "recent news reports" that Google cited as sources for its false publication said anything about the Minnesota Attorney General filing a lawsuit against Wolf River for any reason.
- 95. When people, including current and potential customers, search Wolf River on Google, Google autocompletes the search to "Wolf River Electric sued by Attorney General", and Google states the following:

In March 2024, Minnesota Attorney General Keith Ellison filed a lawsuit against several solar lending companies, including Wolf River Electric, for deceptive business practices. The lawsuit alleges that the companies violated Minnesota laws against deceptive trade practices and lending.

What the lawsuit claims

- The companies charged hidden fees on solar panel purchases
- The companies inflated the cost of solar systems
- The companies prevented customers from comparing prices
- The companies deceived customers about the financial benefits of solar panels
- The companies promised automatic incentives, such as tax credits and rebates, that some customers don't qualify for

What the attorney general recommends

The attorney general recommends that Minnesotans do their research and ask questions when choosing a solar installer and payment options. He also encourages consumers to report concerns with solar companies or lenders.

How to report concerns

You can report concerns with solar companies or lenders by calling the Attorney General's Office at (651) 296-3353 (Metro), (800)

657-3787 (Greater Minnesota), or (800) 627-3529 (Minnesota Relay).

- 112. Further, Wolf River has received notification that several customers who have filed complaints with the Minnesota Attorney General.
- 113. Wolf River now knows these customers were directed by Google to make such a complaint, after Google falsified information directly relating to Wolf River's services and operations.
- 114. Additionally, Google's statements provided the public with false and defamatory information about Wolf River, and subsequently instructed the public to contact the Minnesota Attorney General about Wolf River.
- 115. Google's false statements have had a cascading effect. Many members of the public believe Google's statements to be true and have relied upon these statements in publishing their own false statements in reliance of Google's claims.
- 116. Members of the public, including potential employees and customers, have viewed the defamatory publications made by Google and have relied upon these false statements in regurgitating, spreading, and further defaming Wolf River, all because of Google's false and unsupported statements.
- 117. On February 27, 2025, a member of the public, posting under the alias FamousWealth2992, made a publication on the social media platform Reddit, claiming Wolf River is "also being sued by the MN attorney general for deceptive contracts that have large hidden fees."
 - 118. A copy of this publication is attached as Exhibit 12.
- 119. On the same day, a member of the public, posting under the alias No-Main-1552, expressed concern over sharing their social and personal information with Wolf River. Id.

- 120. On March 5, 2025, a member of the public, posting under the alias smf12, commented on the February 27 publication claiming they had just interviewed with Wolf River and stated "[d]efinitely major red flags." Id.
- 121. Wolf River's competitors are also relying on Google's false statements in informing members of the public that Wolf River engages in deceptive trade practices.
- 122. On March 3, 2025, a customer identifiable and recorded by Wolf River as contract number KSKAU-MYAVG-KA658-5KUFQ, terminated his relationship with Wolf River. The customer referred to lawsuits that appear when he "Googled" Wolf River.
- 123. This contract was for a 12.8 kilowatt solar system, consisting of 32 Waaree-WSMDI-400 solar panels, three roof mounting arrays, and 32 IQ7HS-66-M-US solar inverters. The total contract price was $39,680.00.
- 124. On March 4, 2025, a customer met with a sales representative of Wolf River and refused to do business with Wolf River. This customer stated that they did research online and saw Wolf River was being sued by the Minnesota Attorney General.
 - 125. The solar system proposal for this customer was for $26,400.00.
- 126. On March 5, 2025, a customer contacted a sales representative at Wolf River and expressed concerns about Wolf River being sued by the Minnesota Attorney General for deceptive business practices. The customer sent the sales representative a screenshot of one of Google's false statements stating Wolf River is currently facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General due to allegations of deceptive sales practices.
- 127. On March 5, 2025, a customer of Wolf River, identified by contract number YKUFU-AH78H-PMNDF-K3C7V, contacted Wolf River and expressed concerns because of the publications on Google alleging Wolf River was being sued for misleading customers about cost savings, using high-pressure tactics, and tricking homeowners into signing binding contracts with hidden fees.

- 128. Despite the CEO of Wolf River reassuring this customer that the publications by Google are false, this customer chose to terminate the relationship with Wolf River because of Google.
- 129. This contract was for a large solar system of 44.2 kilowatts, consisting of 104 Maxeon SPR-M425-BLK-AC solar panels and 104 Enphase IQ7HS solar inverters. The total contract price was $150,000.00.
- 130. On March 11, 2025, a non-profit organization informed Wolf River that they were "pulling the plug" on their business relationship because of "several lawsuits in the last year" with the "Attorney General's Office." This customer terminated a solar project with a price of $147,400.00 and a lighting project with a price of $26,644.12.
- 131. The non-profit agreement for solar and lighting is recorded and identifiable by Wolf River as #20250106-XXXXXXXXX.
 - 132. Wolf River has never been named in a lawsuit against the Attorney General.
- 133. There is no doubt that all of these customers terminated their relationship with Wolf River because of the false and defamatory statements made by Google.
 - 134. Wolf River's investigation into the full impact of Google's defamation is ongoing.
 - 135. Google's actions were made with a deliberate disregard to Wolf River's rights.

According to recent news reports, Wolf River Electric is currently facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General due to allegations of deceptive sales practices regarding their solar panel installations, including misleading customers about cost savings, using high-pressure tactics, and tricking homeowners into signing binding contracts with hidden fees; many customers claim they were not properly informed about the total cost of their solar systems and experienced significant issues with installation and functionality after signing contracts.

Key points about the lawsuit against Wolf River Electric:

CASE 0:25-cv-02394

Deceptive marketing:

The lawsuit alleges that Wolf River Electric salespeople exaggerated the potential cost savings from solar panels, often claiming customers would no longer receive electricity bills after installation, which is not accurate.

High-pressure tactics:

Customers reported feeling pressured to sign contracts quickly, with sales representatives downplaying concerns and using misleading language.

Hidden fees:

Some customers claim they were not adequately informed about additional fees associated with financing their solar systems, leading to unexpectedly high costs.

Installation issues:

Minnesota homeowners say they were hit with huge hidden fees when ...

Wolf River Electric has faced complaints and allegations, including being named in a lawsuit by the Minnesota Attorney General, alleging deceptive business practices and misleading consumers, and other complaints related to property damage and high-pressure sales tactics.

Here's a more detailed look:

Lawsuit by Minnesota Attorney General:

In 2022, the Minnesota Attorney General sued Wolf River Electric along with other solar companies for deceptive practices, alleging they misled consumers about cost savings, promised tax credits, and used high-pressure sales tactics.

Allegations of Deception and Misrepresentation:

The lawsuit claimed the companies falsely told customers they were partnering with utility companies, exaggerated savings, and tricked homeowners into signing binding contracts under false pretenses. \mathscr{O}

Other Complaints:

There are also complaints from consumers regarding property damage (like roof damage during installation) and disagreements over contracts and financing arrangements. Some homeowners reported being pressured into financing arrangements they couldn't afford, or being threatened with legal action when they tried to cancel contracts. @

High-Pressure Tactics:

Sales tactics have been described as "predatory" by some homeowners who

How Google autocomplete predictions work

Autocomplete is a feature within Google Search that makes it faster to complete searches that you start to type. Our automated systems generate predictions that help people save time by allowing them to guickly complete a search that is useful to them.

Where autocomplete predictions come from

Once you start to type, autocomplete predictions reflect real searches that have been done on Google. To determine what predictions to show, our systems look for common queries that match what someone starts to enter into the search box but also consider:

- · The language of the query
- · The location a query is coming from
- · Trending interest in a query
- · Your past searches

These factors allow autocomplete to show the most helpful predictions that are unique to a particular location or time, such as for breaking news events.

In addition to full search predictions, Autocomplete may also predict individual words and phrases that are based on both real searches as well as word patterns found across the web.

Finally, signed in users may also see other time saving features related to Autocomplete, including:

- · A history of their past searches
- · Personalized predictions based on their activity on Google

Learn how to manage trending searches, past searches, and personalized search predictions.

Autocomplete policies

Find trending searches

Difference between autocomplete & Google Trends

Autocomplete is a time-saving but complex feature. It doesn't simply display the most common queries on a given topic. That's why it differs from and shouldn't be compared against Google Trends.

Google Trends is a tool for journalists and anyone else who wants to research the popularity of searches and search topics over time.

The Minnesota Attorney General's Office has sued solar lending companies, including Wolf River Electric, over hidden fees and other practices. The office has obtained consent judgments against solar installers and lenders, returning over $300,000 to consumers.

What the lawsuit claims @

- The lenders misrepresented that loan repayment obligations were independent of the actions of the solar company
- The lenders failed to disclose upfront fees in the initial loan documents
- The practices prevented comparison shopping and gave the lenders and solar installers an unfair share of the market

What the lawsuit seeks civil penalties, restitution, disgorgement, and injunctive and declaratory relief.

How to file a complaint

You can file a complaint with the Minnesota Attorney General's Office if you've been victimized by a solar advertiser, installer, or lender. You can file a complaint online or call (651) 296-3353 (Metro area) or (800) 657-3787 (Greater Minnesota).

As of April 2022, the Minnesota Attorney General filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, along with several other solar companies, alleging deceptive sales practices including misrepresenting cost savings, using high-pressure tactics, and tricking consumers into signing binding contracts, leading to many homeowners facing significant financial burdens from poorly installed solar panels that did not deliver promised energy savings; the case is still ongoing and details regarding its current status may be found on the Minnesota Attorney General's website.

Key points about the lawsuit:

Allegations:

The lawsuit accuses Wolf River Electric of misleading customers about the cost savings of solar panels, using aggressive sales tactics, and failing to properly install systems.

Consumer impact:

Many Minnesota homeowners who signed contracts with Wolf River Electric reported facing high hidden fees, delayed installations, and solar panels that did not perform as advertised.

Current status:

The lawsuit is still ongoing, and details regarding its progress can be found on the Minnesota Attorney General's website.

As of April 2022, the Minnesota Attorney General filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, along with several other solar companies, alleging deceptive sales practices including misrepresenting cost savings, using high-pressure tactics, and tricking consumers into signing contracts by calling them "paperwork.". The lawsuit seeks restitution for affected consumers and penalties against the companies. Currently, there haven't been any major updates regarding the outcome of the lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, but you can check the Minnesota Attorney General's website for the latest information.

Key points about the lawsuit:

CASE 0:25-cv-02394

Allegations:

The lawsuit claims Wolf River Electric and other solar companies misled customers about the cost savings of solar panels, used aggressive sales tactics, and made false promises about electricity bill reductions.

Consumer impact:

Many homeowners reportedly signed contracts with Wolf River Electric believing they were simply providing information, only to later discover they were legally bound to a solar installation.

Potential outcomes:

If the lawsuit is successful, affected consumers may be eligible for refunds or contract cancellations, and Wolf River Electric could face financial penalties.

EXHIBIT 9

According to recent news reports, the Minnesota Attorney General has filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, alleging that the company engaged in deceptive sales practices regarding solar panel installations, including misleading customers about tax credits and using high-pressure tactics to sign contracts; this lawsuit indicates that concerns regarding the legitimacy of Wolf River Electric's business practices are currently being investigated by legal authorities.

Key points about the lawsuit:

Deceptive sales tactics:

The lawsuit claims Wolf River Electric misled customers about the amount of money they could save with solar panels and falsely stated that they were automatically eligible for tax credits.

High-pressure sales:

Consumers reported feeling pressured to sign contracts quickly, with concerns about hidden fees and financing terms.

Poor installation quality:

Some complaints also mention issues with the quality of solar panel installations once contracts were signed.

What you should do:

Do your research:

Before signing a contract with Wolf River Electric, thoroughly research the company, read reviews, and compare quotes from other solar providers.

Ask questions:

Be very clear about all aspects of the contract, including financing terms, potential savings, and any tax credits you may be eligible for.

Contact the Attorney General's office:

If you believe you have been misled by Wolf River Electric, consider contacting the Minnesota Attorney General's office to file a complaint.

In March 2024, Minnesota Attorney General Keith Ellison filed a lawsuit against several solar lending companies, including Wolf River Electric, for deceptive business practices. The lawsuit alleges that the companies violated Minnesota laws against deceptive trade practices and lending.

What the lawsuit claims

- The companies charged hidden fees on solar panel purchases
- The companies inflated the cost of solar systems
- The companies prevented customers from comparing prices
- The companies deceived customers about the financial benefits of solar panels
- The companies promised automatic incentives, such as tax credits and rebates, that some customers don't qualify for

What the attorney general recommends

The attorney general recommends that Minnesotans do their research and ask questions when choosing a solar installer and payment options. He also encourages consumers to report concerns with solar companies or lenders.

How to report concerns

You can report concerns with solar companies or lenders by calling the Attorney General's Office at (651) 296-3353 (Metro), (800) 657-3787 (Greater Minnesota), or (800) 627-3529 (Minnesota Relay).

DIGEDICE COLIDE

STATE OF MINNESOTA	DISTRICT COURT
COUNTY OF RAMSEY	SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT
LTL LED, LLC d/b/a Wolf River Electric,	Court File No: Judge
Plaintiff,	ANSWER
vs.
Google, LLC,
Defendant.

Defendant Google, LLC ("Google"), as and for its answer to Plaintiff's Complaint, states and alleges as follows:

GENERAL DENIAL

Except as expressly admitted, qualified, or alleged herein, Google denies each and every allegation in the Complaint and puts Plaintiff to its strict proof thereof.

SPECIFIC RESPONSES

- 1. As to Paragraphs 1-3, 7-9, 112, 115-116, 121-134, and 251-252 of the Complaint, Google states that it lacks sufficient information to either admit or deny the allegations and therefore denies the same and puts Plaintiff to its strict proof thereof.
 - 2. Google admits the allegations of Paragraphs 4-5 of the Complaint.
- 3. Google denies the allegations of Paragraphs 6, 47, 113, 135, 207, 209-210, 212, 223-224, 226-228, 253, 261-264, and 266-268 of the Complaint and puts Plaintiff to its strict proof thereof.

- 4. As to Paragraphs 10-46, 48-111, 114, and 117-120 of the Complaint, Google states that said paragraphs purport to describe documents, publications, and internet postings, the contents of which speak for themselves. To the extent that Google is required to respond, it denies Plaintiff's allegations to the extent that they are inconsistent with said writings and puts Plaintiff to its strict proof thereof.
- 5. As to Paragraphs 7-8, 136-206, 208, 211, 213-222, 225, 229-250, 254, 255-260, and 265 of the Complaint, Google states that said paragraphs constitute legal propositions to which no responsive pleading is required. To the extent that Google is required to respond, it denies the same and puts Plaintiff to its strict proof thereof.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

As and for a further answer to the Complaint, and as and for its affirmative defenses thereto, Google states and alleges as follows:

- 1. Plaintiff's claims fail to state claims upon which relief can be granted.
- 2. Plaintiff's claims are barred in whole or in part by its own actions or inactions.
- 3. Plaintiff's claims are barred by failure to mitigate.
- 4. Plaintiff's claims are barred by the First Amendment.
- 5. Plaintiff's claims are barred by 47 U.S.C. § 230.
- 6. Plaintiff's claims may be barred by additional affirmative defenses and Google reserves the right to identify and plead additional affirmative defenses.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Google prays that judgment be entered in its favor and against Plaintiff as follows:

- A. Dismissing all Counts in the Complaint with prejudice and on the merits, and ordering that Plaintiff take nothing by this action; and
- B. Awarding Google such other relief as the Court deems just and proper, including its costs, disbursements and attorneys' fees incurred herein to the extent permitted by law.

PLAINTIFFS' JOINT AMENDED COMPLAINT

Luka Bozek, and

Jonathan Latcham,

Plaintiffs.

vs.

Google LLC,

Defendant.

Plaintiffs LTL LED, LLC, doing business as Wolf River Electric, Justin Nielsen, Vladimir Marchenko, Luka Bozek, and Jonathan Latcham, for their Joint Amended Complaint, state and allege as follows:

PARTIES

- 1. Plaintiff LTL LED, LLC, doing business as Wolf River Electric (hereinafter "Wolf River"), is a Minnesota Limited Liability Company with a principal place of business located at 101 Isanti Parkway Northeast Suite G, Isanti, MN 55040.
- 2. Wolf River is in the business of the sale, design, installation, and repair of Commercial and Residential Photovoltaic Electricity Systems (solar systems).
- 3. Wolf River is not a financial lending company and does not provide financing or loans for solar systems.
 - 4. Plaintiff Justin Nielsen is a Minnesota resident who resides in Chisago County.

- Plaintiff Justin Nielsen is in the business of managing and operating a solar energy company engaged in the sale, design, and installation of solar panel systems for residential and commercial customers.
- 6. Plaintiff Justin Nielsen is the co-founder and General Manager (GM) of LTL LED, LLC, doing business as Wolf River Electric.
- 7. Plaintiff Vladimir Marchenko is a Minnesota resident who resides in Chisago County.
- 8. Plaintiff Vladimir Marchenko is in the business of developing, marketing, financing, and overseeing the design and installation of solar systems for residential and commercial applications.
- 9. Plaintiff Vladimir Marchenko is the co-founder and Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of LTL LED, LLC, doing business as Wolf River Electric.
 - 10. Plaintiff Luka Bozek is a Minnesota resident who resides in Anoka County.
- 11. Plaintiff Luka Bozek in the business of directing and managing licensed electricians and installation crews to deploy, commission, maintain, and repair solar photovoltaic systems for residential and commercial clients, ensuring each project meets applicable electrical codes, safety standards, and performance specifications.
- 12. Plaintiff Luka Bozek is the co-founder and President of LTL LED, LLC, doing business as Wolf River Electric.
 - 13. Plaintiff Jonathan Latcham is a Minnesota resident who resides in Chisago County.
- 14. Plaintiff Jonathan Latcham is a Certified Public Accountant in the business of overseeing and directing financial operations, including accounting, budgeting, financial reporting, project cost analysis, and the structuring and management of financing arrangements for solar energy system sales and installations, while ensuring compliance with applicable accounting standards and regulatory requirements.

- 15. Plaintiff Jonathan Latcham is the Chief Financial Officer (CFO) of LTL LED, LLC, doing business as Wolf River Electric.
- 16. Defendant Google LLC (hereinafter "Google") is a foreign limited liability company registered to do business in the State of Minnesota with the Minnesota Secretary of State.
- 17. Google has a registered office address of 2780 Snelling Avenue North, Suite 101, Roseville, MN 55113.
- Google is officed in Minnesota, which accepts mail at, and located near, 221 1st Ave SW, Suite 610, Rochester, MN 55902.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

- 19. The Minnesota District Court, County of Ramsey, has personal jurisdiction over all claims set forth in this Complaint pursuant to Minn. Stat. § 543.19 because the injuries and causes of action set forth in this Complaint arose in Minnesota, Google uses and possesses real and personal property situated in Minnesota, and Google transacts business within Minnesota.
- 20. Venue is proper in Ramsey County pursuant to Minn. Stat. § 542.09 because both parties do business in Ramsey County, Google resides in Ramsey County, Google's registered agent office is in Ramsey County, and the cause of action arose from conduct and acts that were intended to harm Plaintiffs in this district.

FACTS

- 21. On or around September 2, 2024, employees of Wolf River reported to Plaintiffs that Google was producing and publishing statements on the internet that falsely informed the public that Wolf River was facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General due to violating several laws.
 - 22. Wolf River has never been sued by the Minnesota Attorney General.
 - 23. Specifically, Google's publication states:

According to recent news reports, Wolf River Electric is currently facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General due to allegations of deceptive sales practices regarding their solar panel installations, including misleading customers about cost savings, using high-pressure tactics, and tricking homeowners into signing binding contracts with hidden fees; many customers claim they were not properly informed about the total cost of their solar systems and experienced significant issues with installation and functionality after signing contracts.

- 24. A copy of this publication is attached as Exhibit 1.
- 25. The URL for Google's publication is:

 <a href="https://www.google.com/search?q=wolf+river+electric+lawsuit&rlz=1C1GCEA_enUS1144US1_144&oq=wolf+river&gs_lcrp=EgZjaHJvbWUqBggAEEUYOzIGCAAQRRg7MgkIARBFGDk_YgAQyEAgCEC4YrwEYxwEYsQMYgAQyDQgDEC4YrwEYxwEYgAQyBwgEEAAYgAQyBgFEEUYQTIGCAYQRRg9MgYIBxBFGEHSAQgyMTc0ajBqN6gCALACAA&sourceid=ch_rome&ie=UTF-8
 - 26. Google lists four (4) websites as a source in support of its claims.
- 27. The first website that is cited is a news article titled "Minnesota homeowners say they were hit with huge hidden fees when going solar" and was published by the Minnesota Star Tribune (hereinafter "Star Tribune Article").
- 28. The Star Tribune Article does not state that Wolf River ever faced a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General.

- 29. The Star Tribune Article contains nothing about Wolf River misleading customers about cost savings.
- 30. The Star Tribune Article does not state anything about customers who claimed they were not properly informed about the total cost of their solar systems by Wolf River.
- 31. The Star Tribune Article does not state Wolf River's customers experienced significant issues with installation and functionality after signing contracts.
- 32. Google falsified its claims and misled the world by falsely crediting these false claims to the Star Tribune Article.
- 33. The second link cited is a review on the website Angie's List (hereinafter the "Angie's List Review").
- 34. The Angie's List Review contains nothing about a Minnesota Attorney General Lawsuit against Wolf River.
 - 35. The Angie's List Review is not a news report.
- 36. The Angie's List Review does not state Wolf River mislead customers about cost savings.
 - 37. The Angie's List Review does not claim Wolf River tricked homeowners.
 - 38. The Angie's List Review does not say anything about Wolf River hiding fees.
- 39. The Angie's List Review does not state that many customers claim they were not properly informed about the total cost of their solar systems.
- 40. Google invented these false claims and falsely contributed these false claims to the Angie's List Review.
- 41. The third source cited is a publication by the Minnesota Attorney General, published on April 26, 2022 (hereinafter the "Attorney General Publication").

- 42. The Attorney General Publication lists ten (10) solar related parties to its lawsuit, none of which are Wolf River.
 - 43. The Attorney General Publication does not say that Wolf River is facing a lawsuit.
- 44. The Attorney General Publication does not state Wolf River engaged in deceptive sales practices regarding their solar panel installations.
- 45. The Attorney General Publication does not state Wolf River mislead customers about cost savings.
- 46. The Attorney General Publication does not state Wolf River used high-pressure tactics.
- 47. The Attorney General Publication does not state Wolf River tricked homeowners into signing binding contracts with hidden fees.
- 48. The Attorney General Publication does not state that many of Wolf River's customers claimed they were not properly informed about the total cost of their solar systems.
- 49. The Attorney General Publication does not state that Wolf River's customers experienced significant issues with installation and functionality after signing contracts.
 - 50. In fact, Wolf River is never mentioned in the Attorney General Publication.
- 51. Google falsely claimed its statements were sourced from the Attorney General Publication.
- 52. The fourth source Google cited is an article published by KROC News. The article is titled "Minnesota AG Suing Four Solar Panel Sales Companies" and was published on April 26, 2022 (hereinafter "KROC Article").
 - 53. The KROC Article never mentions Wolf River Electric. It states:

The companies named in the lawsuit are Brio Energy (also known as Pure Solar Energy and Clean Energy Educators), Bello Solar

Energy (also known as Total Solar Solutions and Brio Solar Energy), Avolta Power, and Sunny Solar Utah (also known as Sunny Renewable Energy). A news release notes that Brio changed its name to Bello and then Avolta. The lenders being sued or identified as Goodleap (Loanpal), Sunlight Financial, and Corning Credit Union Services Company.¹

- 54. The KROC Article does not state that Wolf River is facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General.
- 55. The KROC Article does not state that Wolf River has allegations of deceptive sales practices regarding their solar panel installations.
- 56. The KROC Article does not state that Wolf River misleads customers about cost savings.
 - 57. The KROC Article does not state that Wolf River used high-pressure tactics.
- 58. The KROC Article does not state that Wolf River tricked homeowners into signing binding contracts with hidden fees.
- 59. The KROC Article does not state that many of Wolf River's customers claim they were not properly informed about the total cost of their solar systems.
- 60. The KROC Article does not state that Wolf River's customers experienced significant issues with installation and functionality after signing contracts.
 - 61. Wolf River is never mentioned in the KROC Article.
- 62. Google intentionally made these false claims about Wolf River and falsely cited its claims to the KROC Article.
- 63. Google made these false statements knowing that the KROC Article never mentions Wolf River.

¹ https://krocnews.com/minnesota-ag-suing-four-solar-panel-sales-companies/ (emphasis added).

- 64. Google's publication falsely claims Wolf River is currently facing a lawsuit from the Minnesota Attorney General. None of the four sources Google cited support this claim.
- 65. Despite this, Google's publications about Plaintiffs remain online and continues to harm Plaintiffs.
 - 66. The next part of Google publication reads:

Key points about the lawsuit against Wolf River Electric:

Deceptive marketing:

The lawsuit alleges that Wolf River Electric salespeople exaggerated the potential cost savings from solar panels, often claiming customers would no longer receive electricity bills after installation, which is not accurate.

High-pressure tactics:

Customers reported feeling pressured to sign contracts quickly, with sales representatives downplaying concerns and using misleading language.

Hidden fees:

Some customers claim they were not adequately informed about additional fees associated with financing their solar systems, leading to unexpectedly high costs.

Installation issues:

Complaints include issues with the quality of solar panel installations, including improper connections to the grid and malfunctioning panels.²

- 67. The "deceptive marketing" paragraph cites to three sources: the Star Tribune Article, the Attorney General Publication, and the KROC Article.

86. When searching on Google for Wolf River, the public is encouraged to search and click on the prompted autocompleted phrase "Wolf River Electric lawsuit." When the public selects this suggestion, the following statement is provided by Google:

Wolf River Electric has faced complaints and allegations, including being named in a lawsuit by the Minnesota Attorney General, alleging deceptive business practices and misleading consumers, and other complaints related to property damage and high-pressure sales tactics.

Here's a more detailed look:

Lawsuit by Minnesota Attorney General:

In 2022, the Minnesota Attorney General sued Wolf River Electric along with other solar companies for deceptive practices, alleging they misled consumers about cost savings, promised tax credits, and used high-pressure sales tactics.

Allegations of Deception and Misrepresentation:

The lawsuit claimed the companies falsely told customers they were partnering with utility companies, exaggerated savings, and tricked homeowners into signing binding contracts under false pretenses.

Other Complaints:

There are also complaints from consumers regarding property damage (like roof damage during installation) and disagreements over contracts and financing arrangements. Some homeowners reported being pressured into financing arrangements they couldn't afford, or being threatened with legal action when they tried to cancel contracts.

High-Pressure Tactics:

Sales tactics have been described as "predatory" by some homeowners who experienced issues with Wolf River Electric, including promises of a free cruise as part of the solar panel deal.

Better Business Bureau (BBB) Complaints:

The BBB profile for Wolf River Electric indicates a history of customer complaints.

Employee Reviews

Glassdoor and other review sites, Wolf River Electric has an overall rating of 4.0 out of 5 based on employee reviews.

The Minnesota Attorney General's Office has sued solar lending companies, including Wolf River Electric, over hidden fees and other practices. The office has obtained consent judgments against solar installers and lenders, returning over $300,000 to consumers.

What the lawsuit claims

- The lenders misrepresented loan repayment obligations
- The lenders failed to disclose upfront fees in loan documents
- The lenders and partner solar installers inflated their share of the market
- The lenders' practices skewed sales towards their financing

What the lawsuit seeks civil penalties, restitution, disgorgement, and injunctive and declaratory relief.

How consumers can get help

Consumers who have experienced problems with solar advertisers, installers, or lenders can file a complaint with the Minnesota Attorney General's Office. They can also call the office at (651) 296-3353 in the Twin Cities or (800) 657-3787 in Greater Minnesota.

- 98. When Wolf River's customer, potential customers, business partners, competitors, and the general public google Wolf River, they are recommended to click or search "Wolf River Electric lawsuit update today." Google then states the following:

As of April 2022, the Minnesota Attorney General filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, along with several other solar companies, alleging deceptive sales practices including misrepresenting cost savings, using high-pressure tactics, and tricking consumers into signing binding contracts, leading to many homeowners facing significant financial burdens from poorly installed solar panels that did not deliver promised energy savings; the case is still ongoing and details regarding its current status may be found on the Minnesota Attorney General's website.

Key points about the lawsuit:

Allegations:

The lawsuit accuses Wolf River Electric of misleading customers about the cost savings of solar panels, using aggressive sales tactics, and failing to properly install systems.

Consumer impact:

Many Minnesota homeowners who signed contracts with Wolf River Electric reported facing high hidden fees, delayed installations, and solar panels that did not perform as advertised.

Current status:

The lawsuit is still ongoing, and details regarding its progress can be found on the Minnesota Attorney General's website.

- 112. When Wolf River's customers and members of the public search "Wolf River Electric", Google autocompletes the search to "Wolf River Electric company legit lawsuit." Google then displays the following publication,

According to recent news reports, the Minnesota Attorney General has filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, alleging that the company engaged in deceptive sales practices regarding solar panel installations, including misleading customers about tax credits and using high-pressure tactics to sign contracts; this lawsuit indicates that concerns regarding the legitimacy of Wolf River Electric's business practices are currently being investigated by legal authorities.

Key points about the lawsuit:

Deceptive sales tactics:

The lawsuit claims Wolf River Electric misled customers about the amount of money they could save with solar panels and falsely stated that they were automatically eligible for tax credits.

High-pressure sales:

Consumers reported feeling pressured to sign contracts quickly, with concerns about hidden fees and financing terms.

Poor installation quality:

Some complaints also mention issues with the quality of solar panel installations once contracts were signed.

What you should do:

Do your research:

Before signing a contract with Wolf River Electric, thoroughly research the company, read reviews, and compare quotes from other solar providers.

Ask questions:

Be very clear about all aspects of the contract, including financing terms, potential savings, and any tax credits you may be eligible for.

Contact the Attorney General's office:

If you believe you have been misled by Wolf River Electric, consider contacting the Minnesota Attorney General's office to file a complaint.

This publication by Google falsely claims that the Minnesota Attorney General filed a lawsuit against Wolf River for deceptive sales practices regarding solar panel installations, falsely claims the Attorney General is suing Wolf River for misleading customers about tax credits and using high-pressure tactics to sign contracts, and falsely claims the lawsuit indicates that concerns regarding the legitimacy of Wolf River Electric's business practices are currently being investigated by legal authorities.
- 116. Further, none of the "recent news reports" that Google cited as sources for its false publication said anything about the Minnesota Attorney General filing a lawsuit against Wolf River for any reason.
- 117. When people, including current and potential customers, search Wolf River on Google, Google autocompletes the search to "Wolf River Electric sued by Attorney General", and Google states the following:

In March 2024, Minnesota Attorney General Keith Ellison filed a lawsuit against several solar lending companies, including Wolf River Electric, for deceptive business practices. The lawsuit alleges that the companies violated Minnesota laws against deceptive trade practices and lending.

What the lawsuit claims

- The companies charged hidden fees on solar panel purchases
- The companies inflated the cost of solar systems
- The companies prevented customers from comparing prices
- The companies deceived customers about the financial benefits of solar panels
- The companies promised automatic incentives, such as tax credits and rebates, that some customers don't qualify for

What the attorney general recommends

The attorney general recommends that Minnesotans do their research and ask questions when choosing a solar installer and payment options. He also encourages consumers to report concerns with solar companies or lenders.

How to report concerns

You can report concerns with solar companies or lenders by calling the Attorney General's Office at (651) 296-3353 (Metro), (800) 657-3787 (Greater Minnesota), or (800) 627-3529 (Minnesota Relay).

wolf river electric lawsuit - Google Search

♦ Al Overview Learn more

Wolf River Electric has faced complaints and allegations, including being named in a lawsuit by the Minnesota Attorney General, alleging deceptive business practices and misleading consumers, and other complaints related to property damage and high-pressure sales tactics.

Here's a more detailed look:

Lawsuit by Minnesota Attorney General:

In 2022, the Minnesota Attorney General sued Wolf River Electric along with other solar companies for deceptive practices, alleging they misled consumers about cost savings, promised tax credits, and used high-pressure sales tactics.

Allegations of Deception and Misrepresentation:

The lawsuit claimed the companies falsely told customers they were partnering with utility companies, exaggerated savings, and tricked homeowners into signing binding contracts under false pretenses. •

Other Complaints:

There are also complaints from consumers regarding property damage (like roof damage during installation) and disagreements over contracts and financing arrangements. Some homeowners reported being pressured into financing arrangements they couldn't afford, or being threatened with legal action when they tried to cancel contracts.

High-Pressure Tactics:

Sales tactics have been described as "predatory" by some homeowners who

How Google autocomplete predictions work - Google Search Help

How Google autocomplete predictions work

Autocomplete is a feature within Google Search that makes it faster to complete searches that you start to type. Our automated systems generate predictions that help people save time by allowing them to quickly complete a search that is useful to them.

Where autocomplete predictions come from

Once you start to type, autocomplete predictions reflect real searches that have been done on Google. To determine what predictions to show, our systems look for common queries that match what someone starts to enter into the search box but also consider:

- · The language of the query
- · The location a query is coming from
- · Trending interest in a query
- · Your past searches

These factors allow autocomplete to show the most helpful predictions that are unique to a particular location or time, such as for breaking news events.

In addition to full search predictions, Autocomplete may also predict individual words and phrases that are based on both real searches as well as word patterns found across the web.

Finally, signed in users may also see other time saving features related to Autocomplete, including:

- · A history of their past searches
- · Personalized predictions based on their activity on Google

Learn how to manage trending searches, past searches, and personalized search predictions.

How we handle issues with predictions

Autocomplete policies

Find trending searches

Difference between autocomplete & Google Trends

Autocomplete is a time-saving but complex feature. It doesn't simply display the most common queries on a given topic. That's why it differs from and shouldn't be compared against Google Trends.

Google Trends is a tool for journalists and anyone else who wants to research the popularity of searches and search topics over time.

♦ Al Overview Learn more

The Minnesota Attorney General's Office has sued solar lending companies, including Wolf River Electric, over hidden fees and other practices. The office has obtained consent judgments against solar installers and lenders, returning over $300,000 to consumers.

What the lawsuit claims @

- The lenders misrepresented that loan repayment obligations were independent of the actions of the solar company
- · The lenders failed to disclose upfront fees in the initial loan documents
- The practices prevented comparison shopping and gave the lenders and solar installers an unfair share of the market

What the lawsuit seeks civil penalties, restitution, disgorgement, and injunctive and declaratory relief.

How to file a complaint

You can file a complaint with the Minnesota Attorney General's Office if you've been victimized by a solar advertiser, installer, or lender. You can file a complaint online or call (651) 296-3353 (Metro area) or (800) 657-3787 (Greater Minnesota).

tactics, and tricking consumers into signing contracts by calling them "paperwork.". The lawsuit seeks restitution for affected consumers and penalties against the companies. Currently, there haven't been any major updates regarding the outcome of the lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, but you can check the Minnesota Attorney General's website for the latest information.

Key points about the lawsuit:

Allegations:

The lawsuit claims Wolf River Electric and other solar companies misled customers about the cost savings of solar panels, used aggressive sales tactics, and made false promises about electricity bill reductions.

Consumer impact:

Many homeowners reportedly signed contracts with Wolf River Electric believing they were simply providing information, only to later discover they were legally bound to a solar installation.

Potential outcomes:

If the lawsuit is successful, affected consumers may be eligible for refunds or contract cancellations, and Wolf River Electric could face financial penalties.

wolf river electric company legit lawsuit - Google Search

According to recent news reports, the Minnesota Attorney General has filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, alleging that the company engaged in deceptive sales practices regarding solar panel installations, including misleading customers about tax credits and using high-pressure tactics to sign contracts; this lawsuit indicates that concerns regarding the legitimacy of Wolf River Electric's business practices are currently being investigated by legal authorities.

Key points about the lawsuit:

Deceptive sales tactics:

The lawsuit claims Wolf River Electric misled customers about the amount of money they could save with solar panels and falsely stated that they were automatically eligible for tax credits. \mathscr{O}

High-pressure sales:

Consumers reported feeling pressured to sign contracts quickly, with concerns about hidden fees and financing terms. P

Poor installation quality:

Some complaints also mention issues with the quality of solar panel installations once contracts were signed. \mathscr{D}

What you should do:

Do your research:

Before signing a contract with Wolf River Electric, thoroughly research the company, read reviews, and compare quotes from other solar providers. \mathscr{P}

wolf river electric sued by attorney general - Google Search

In March 2024, Minnesota Attorney General Keith Ellison filed a lawsuit against several solar lending companies, including Wolf River Electric, for deceptive business practices. The lawsuit alleges that the companies violated Minnesota laws against deceptive trade practices and lending.

What the lawsuit claims

- The companies charged hidden fees on solar panel purchases
- The companies inflated the cost of solar systems @
- The companies prevented customers from comparing prices
- The companies deceived customers about the financial benefits of solar panels
- The companies promised automatic incentives, such as tax credits and rebates, that some customers don't qualify for @

What the attorney general recommends

The attorney general recommends that Minnesotans do their research and ask questions when choosing a solar installer and payment options. He also encourages consumers to report concerns with solar companies or lenders.

How to report concerns

You can report concerns with solar companies or lenders by calling the Attorney General's Office at (651) 296-3353 (Metro), (800) 657-3787 (Greater Minnesota), or (800) 627-3529 (Minnesota Relay).

Minnesota Attorney General Keith Ellison has filed lawsuits against Brio Energy and other solar-related companies, including lenders, for allegedly defrauding homeowners through deceptive practices like hidden dealer fees. Wolf River Electric was also a target of the lawsuit, but they are not directly associated with Brio Energy as a company. Justin

Nielsen, a co-founder of Wolf River Electric and its general manager, is also named in the lawsuit. @

Elaboration:

Brio Energy and the Lawsuit:

Minnesota Attorney General Ellison has sued Brio Energy, along with other solarrelated companies, for allegedly deceiving homeowners about loan terms and hidden fees, causing financial harm. @

Wolf River Electric Involvement:

While Wolf River Electric was also a target of the lawsuit, they are not directly associated with Brio Energy as a company. @

Justin Nielsen and Wolf River:

Justin Nielsen is the General Manager and a co-founder of Wolf River Electric. He is also named in the lawsuit, which targets the company's practices. @

Key Allegations:

The lawsuits allege that companies like Brio and those involved in financing solar purchases misrepresented loan terms, concealed hidden fees, and pressured customers into contracts. @

Consumer Protection:

Ellison has stated that his goal is to protect Minnesota consumers from deceptive practices and ensure fair business dealings in the renewable energy sector. $\,\,^{arrho}$

In a series of cases, the Minnesota Attorney General's Office pursued settlements against Justin Nielsen, who co-founded and served as general manager of solar companies, for misleading sales practices and hidden fees. The settlements, encompassing various defendants, resulted in bans on further sales, completion of outstanding projects, and restitution for consumers. Nielsen was part of a larger group of solar companies and individuals who were subject to lawsuits by the Attorney General's Office.

Here's a more detailed look:

Settlements and Bans:

Minnesota Attorney General's Office secured settlements and judgments against multiple defendants, including Avolta Power, Inc., related companies, and their managers, resulting in bans on further sales in Minnesota. These bans were part of a larger set of actions against solar companies for deceptive sales practices.

Completion of Projects and Restitution:

The settlements also included mandates to complete existing solar projects for Minnesota consumers by a set deadline or cancel them without penalty. Additionally, consumers received restitution totaling over $310,000 for false promises related to the solar projects. @

Hidden Fees and Misleading Practices:

The Attorney General's Office investigated and sued solar companies for deceptive sales practices, including false promises about low interest and hidden fees that increased loan costs. Some solar companies were also accused of misleading consumers about tax credits and engaging in coercive sales tactics.

Consumer Protections:

These settlements are part of a broader effort by the Attorney General's Office to protect Minnesota consumers from deceptive sales practices, including those in the solar industry. The office has also taken action against solar lending companies for deceptive practices and hidden fees. @

The Minnesota Attorney General, Keith Ellison, has been involved in lawsuits against various solar companies and lenders, including Wolf River Electric and Justin Nielsen, who is the general manager and co-founder of the company, for alleged deceptive practices in solar sales and financing. These lawsuits claim that the companies misrepresented information, deceived consumers, and violated Minnesota's consumer fraud laws. @

Elaboration:

Deceptive Sales Practices:

The Attorney General has accused companies, including Wolf River Electric, of using advertisements and sales tactics that mislead consumers about the cost savings, benefits of solar panels, and their relationship with utility companies, according to a press release from the AG's Office. @

Hidden Fees and Financing:

The AG has also filed lawsuits against solar lenders, alleging that they hide fees and don't disclose upfront the total cost of financing solar panels, according to a report from the Minnesota Attorney General. @

Violation of State Laws:

The lawsuits allege that the companies and lenders violated the Minnesota Consumer Fraud Act and other state laws against deceptive trade practices, according to a press release from the Minnesota AG's Office.

Justin Nielsen's Role:

Justin Nielsen, as the general manager and co-founder of Wolf River Electric, is named in the lawsuits as a key individual responsible for the alleged deceptive practices.

Attorney General's Actions:

The Attorney General is seeking restitution for consumers, civil penalties against the defendants, and court orders to ensure that customers can cancel contracts and loans. \mathscr{O}

Did you mean: attorney general lawsuit update wolf river electric WIRE solar company and CEO Vladimir Marchenko and Minnesota

The Minnesota Attorney General, Keith Ellison, has filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric (WRE) solar company, CEO Vladimir Merchenko, and related entities, alleging deceptive sales practices and consumer fraud. The lawsuit focuses on the company's sales practices and the lending arrangements used to finance solar installations, which are alleged to have resulted in inflated costs for consumers due to hidden fees and misrepresentations.

Here's a more detailed breakdown:

Deceptive Sales Practices:

The lawsuit alleges that WRE and its representatives used high-pressure sales tactics, misrepresented the true cost of solar panel installations, and failed to disclose hidden fees. \mathscr{P}

Hidden Fees and Inflated Costs:

The lawsuit claims that WRE and its lenders engaged in deceptive sales practices that led to undisclosed fees and loan costs, ultimately increasing the overall cost of solar installations for consumers. •

Lending Arrangements:

The lawsuit also targets lenders that partnered with WRE to finance solar panel purchases, alleging that these lenders are also liable for the consumer fraud due to their knowledge and participation in the deceptive practices.

Lawsuit Filing and Settlements:

The Minnesota Attorney General's Office has filed multiple lawsuits against solar companies and lenders, seeking restitution for impacted consumers and penalties for violations of state law.

Vladimir Marchenko's Role:

Vladimir Marchenko, the CEO of WRE, is also a named defendant in the lawsuit. @

In 2023, Minnesota Attorney General Keith Ellison announced a settlement and obtained judgments against all 10 defendants in a lawsuit involving deceptive sales of solar panel systems, including Solar Vets LLC, Vladimir Marchenko (CEO), and Wolf River Company. The total settlement exceeded $310,000. The AG's office had initially brought the lawsuit, alleging deceptive sales practices and consumer protection law violations. The settlements were reached without an admission of liability by the defendants. @

Here's a more detailed breakdown:

- Deceptive Sales Practices: The lawsuit alleged that these companies engaged in deceptive practices when selling solar panel systems to Minnesota residents, potentially violating state consumer protection laws. @
- Settlement and Judgments: The Minnesota Attorney General's office reached a settlement and obtained separate judgments against each of the 10 defendants, which included Solar Vets LLC and other related entities. @
- No Admission of Liability: The settlements were reached without any implication that the defendants admitted to any liability. @
- Total Settlement Amount: The total settlement amount, across all defendants, exceeded $310,000. ∅
- Vladimir Marchenko: The CEO, Vladimir Marchenko, was also a part of the lawsuit and the subsequent settlement. @
- Wolf River Company: This company was also included in the lawsuit and settlement. @
- Minnesota Attorney General: The case was pursued by Minnesota Attorney General Keith Ellison and his office.

The Minnesota Attorney General's Office has been actively involved in addressing deceptive practices within the solar energy industry, including legal action against solar installers, advertisers, and lenders.

1. LTL LED, LLC and Luka Bozek:

- Lawsuit: In July 2024, the Minnesota Attorney General's Office reached an Assurance of Discontinuance (AOD) with LTL LED, LLC and its president, Luka Bozek.
- Allegations: The Attorney General alleged that LTL LED, LLC and Mr. Bozek published misleading advertisements designed to entice consumers to provide their information to solar installers.
- Outcome: As part of the AOD, LTL LED and Mr. Bozek are prohibited from making any future advertising misrepresentations. They also faced a stayed civil penalty of $100,000. ❷

2. All Energy Solar:

- Lawsuit Regarding Financing Practices: While All Energy Solar hasn't been directly sued for deceptive sales practices, they were the largest installer of rooftop solar systems financed through lenders who were sued by the Minnesota Attorney General in 2024.
- Allegations Against Lenders: The lawsuit targeted four solar financing companies (GoodLeap, Sunlight Financial, Dividend Finance, and Mosaic) for allegedly concealing and improperly charging $35 million in fees to Minnesotans since 2017.
- All Energy Solar's Role: All Energy Solar allegedly sold the most rooftop systems financed through these four companies. However, the lawsuit notes that 72% of All Energy Solar's sales are not financed through those four companies.

Key Concerns Raised in Lawsuits:

 Misleading Advertising: False claims about cost savings and benefits of solar panels, including promises that homeowners would never receive another 5/19/25, 9:34 AM mn attorney general lawsuit LTL LED, LLC and President Luka Bozekand All Energy Solar minnesota - Google Search electricity bill.

- High-Pressure Sales Tactics: Salespeople pressured consumers into signing contracts using deceptive tactics.
- Hidden Fees in Financing: Lenders concealed large upfront fees, often called "dealer fees," which significantly increased the cost of solar systems and were added to the loan principal.
- Misrepresentation of Affiliations: Salespeople falsely claimed to be working for or in partnership with local utility companies.
- Faulty Installations and Unfulfilled Promises: In some cases, solar panels were not properly connected to the grid, did not work as promised, or failed to generate the projected savings or tax credits.

Consumer Protection Efforts:

- The Minnesota Attorney General's Office has been actively working to protect consumers from deceptive practices in the solar industry.
- They encourage consumers to research solar companies, obtain multiple bids, ask questions, and carefully review contracts before signing.
- Consumers are urged to report any concerns about solar companies or lenders to the Attorney General's Office.

Minnesota Attorney General Keith Ellison has taken legal action against several companies, including Brio Energy, and individuals, including Luka Bozek, president of Wolf River Electric, for allegedly engaging in consumer fraud related to solar panel sales. The lawsuit claims these entities used deceptive and predatory practices to sell residential solar panels to Minnesotans.

Here's a more detailed breakdown:

Allegations in the Lawsuit:

Deceptive Practices:

Ellison's office alleges that these companies misrepresented themselves as partnering with utility companies, tricked homeowners into signing binding contracts, and exaggerated the potential savings on utility bills.

High-Pressure Tactics:

The lawsuit claims the companies used high-pressure sales techniques, including misrepresenting the documents consumers were signing and using misleading information.

Tax Credit Misinformation:

The Attorney General's office also alleges that the companies falsely told consumers they were automatically eligible for tax credits, which they weren't.

Deceptive Sales Model:

The lawsuit also alleges that Brio Energy and Wolf River Electric used a deceptive sales model that skewed sales towards the lenders' financing and prevented comparison shopping, potentially at the expense of other legitimate businesses.

Legal Action and Relief:

Consumer Fraud Lawsuits:

mn attorney general wolf river electric company and brio energy president Luka Bozekand Minnesota - Google Search

Seeking Restitution and Penalties:

The Attorney General is seeking restitution for consumers, civil penalties, and the State's costs. ❷

Order to Allow Contract Cancellation:

The lawsuit also requests that the court order all prospective and current customers to be able to cancel their contracts and loans. ⊘

Settlements and Fines:

In some cases, settlements and fines have been reached with companies involved, requiring them to pay restitution to consumers and pay fines for their actions. @

Completion of Solar Projects:

In one instance, the Attorney General's office mandated the completion of all outstanding solar projects for Minnesota consumers by a certain date, according to a press release from the AG's office. \mathscr{O}

Key Takeaways:

Protecting Minnesotans:

Ellison's office is working to protect Minnesotans from deceptive practices in the solar panel industry.

Hidden Fees and Deceptive Financing:

The Attorney General's office has also taken action against solar lending companies for concealing hidden fees and improperly charging Minnesotans for those fees, according to the Star Tribune.

Importance of Research:

In summary, Minnesota Attorney General Keith Ellison has taken legal action against Brio Energy and individuals like Luka Bozek, president of Wolf River Electric, for allegedly engaging in deceptive practices related to solar panel sales, aiming to protect Minnesotans from consumer fraud and ensure fair practices in the solar industry.

Al Overview

Learn more

The Minnesota Attorney General has taken action against several companies involved in deceptive solar sales practices, including LTL LED LLC, CFO Jon Latcham, and a company that could potentially be associated with Wolf River Electric. These actions target companies that allegedly misrepresented the cost savings, benefits, and contract terms associated with solar panel installations, leading to consumer fraud and financial harm.

LTL LED LLC and Jon Latcham:

- The Minnesota Attorney General's Office has specifically named LTL LED LLC and Jon Latcham (presumably his role as CFO) in a lawsuit alleging deceptive solar sales tactics.
- The lawsuit alleges that LTL LED LLC and Jon Latcham misrepresented the cost savings, benefits, and contract terms related to solar panel installations.
- Consumers were allegedly tricked into signing binding sales contracts and loan agreements, often by misrepresenting the nature of the documents or using highpressure sales tactics.

Wolf River Electric and Associated Companies:

- The Minnesota Attorney General's Office has also targeted other companies in the solar industry for similar deceptive practices.
- Bring Me The News reports that some of these companies are associated with Wolf River Electric.
- The lawsuit alleges that these companies used aggressive door-to-door sales tactics and misrepresented the cost savings, benefits, and contract terms of solar panel installations.
- The Attorney General's Office is seeking restitution, disgorgement, and injunctive relief to prevent further harm to consumers.

Key Actions of the Minnesota Attorney General:

- The Attorney General's Office has sued several solar companies, including LTL LED LLC and Brio Energy LLC (also known as Pure Solar Energy and Clean Energy Educators).
- The lawsuit alleges that these companies used aggressive, deceptive, door-todoor sales tactics to defraud consumers.
- The Attorney General's Office is seeking to make consumers whole and prevent these companies from harming Minnesotans further.

The Minnesota Attorney General (AG) has filed multiple lawsuits against solar companies and lenders, including Solar Vets LLC, CFO Jon Latcham, and Wolf River Electric Company, alleging deceptive practices and consumer fraud. The AG's office has also obtained consent judgments and settlements in other cases, returning over $300,000 to impacted consumers. 🕜

Here's a more detailed breakdown:

Deceptive Practices:

The AG's office has alleged that these companies, along with others, used deceptive advertising and high-pressure sales tactics to entice consumers into signing binding contracts and loan agreements for solar panel installations. @

Misrepresentations:

The AG's office has claimed that these companies falsely represented that their salespeople worked for or in partnership with local utility companies and exaggerated potential utility bill savings. @

Hidden Fees:

The AG has also sued solar lending companies for allegedly concealing and improperly charging $35 million in fees to Minnesotans since 2017, including hidden fees on loans that increased costs by 15% to 30%, according to Goodwin Procter. @

High-Pressure Tactics:

Salespeople were allegedly trained to use high-pressure tactics to make a sale, sometimes even using aggressive language like "going to war" to describe sales. @

Failure to Deliver:

The AG has also alleged that the solar panels were not always connected to the utility grid as promised, did not always work, and did not generate the utility-bill savings or tax credits that were promised. @
